

Numbering

A numbering resource is any number used for the provision of electronic communications services. Namely, the number resources of the National Numbering Plan include geographic and non-geographic numbers, Carrier Selection/Pre-selection codes, short codes, routing prefixes, as well as numbers of internal numbering, addressing and identification of electronic communications networks.